

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 6.

LETTERS from Europe concerning the failure of Messrs. Bowles Brothers & Co., are not very explicit in their statements of the cause, but it seems that the bankers have been playing fast and loose with their depositors, and have attempted business enterprises on a larger scale than was warranted by their capital and resources. In one instance they kept an account, some bonds, with them by an American customer, without his knowledge or consent. On account of the depreciation of securities which the bank held for the firm, it refused to pay any more of their drafts or make any further advances, and then came the crash. Americans who were travelling in Europe on Bowles' letters of credit were greatly inconvenienced, in some instances being actually left without money enough to pay their hotel bills.

WORKING FOR THE DEVIL.—There was a man in the town where I was born who used to steal his firewood. He would get up on cold nights and go and take it from his neighbor's wood-pile. A computation was made, and it was ascertained that he spent more time and worked harder to get his fuel than he would have had to if he had earned it in an honest way, and at ordinary wages. And this thief is a type of thousands of men who work a great deal harder to please the devil than they would have to please God.—Exchange.
